LATE EDITION

PRICE ONE PENNY.

The Sydney Morning Herald.

SYDNEY, TUESDAY, JULY 3, 1917. 12 PAGES. PRICE, 1d.

No. 24,802. { Registered at the General Post Office, Sydney, for transmission by post as a newspaper.

SUMMARY.

The British attacked on the north bank of the Souchez, and captured the enemy's defences on a half-mile front.

There has been considerable enemy artillery fire in the Scarpe Valley, in the neighbourhood of Lens, and north of the Lys River.

During June the British captured 8686 Germans, including 175 officers.

Powerful enemy raids east of La Pompelle and north of Bezuay cost the enemy serious losses without gaining any results.

The enemy violently bombarded the French front lines in the region east of Reims.

The artillery struggle continues intense in the region of Avocourt Wood, Hill 304, and at Mort Homme.

A lively engagement occurred west of Mort Homme around one of the French advanced posts.

The post was lost and retaken five times. It was finally abandoned by both sides as useless.

German long-range guns fired 48 shells into Dunkirk, killing a few civilians.

Aeroplane photographs of the recent bombardment of Ostend show that little damage was done to residential portions.

There is much wreckage of wharfs, destroyers, submarine shelters, and the pier.

The "Morning Post" states that there are indications that the Germans on the Western front are short of guns and ammunition.

Although many guns are amassed at certain points, the rest of the line has been skinned.

It is estimated that the British destroyed 1289 German guns in 23 weeks.

A French communique states that in the Cerny-Ailles sector the bombardment with big-calibre shells was redoubled in intensity.

It was succeeded by a most violent enemy attack east of Cerny, on a front of 625 yards.

The enemy occupied a line of trenches levelled by shells and evacuated by the French.

The French fire caused great havoc among the enemy, who, despite all efforts, were unable to push the attack further.

German newspapers are preparing the public for Russian activity.

"We must dispel the popular idea," they say, "that Russia is incapable of resuming the offensive."

An Austrian official message states that the artillery fire increased in intensity in Eastern Galicia on Saturday.

"We repulsed strong infantry attacks in the neighbourhood of Brzezany," it continues.

A German official report states: "Russian infantry attacks on the Upper Strypa failed with heavy losses."

Washington states that Germany obtained from neutrals sufficient food for the entire German armies on the East.

The "North German Gazette" states that Rantzelau will shortly be prosecuted in Germany for contravening the Norwegian law.

It assures the Norwegians that the explosives were not intended to be used in Norway or against Norway's interests.

The masts of the sunken Mongolia are showing above the water at Bombay. Rough moaning seas are preventing divers working.

Mr. F. E. Winchcombe manfully pulled an oar in one of the boats from the ship.

He died in the military hospital from heart failure following upon exhaustion through overtaxing his strength.

It is officially reported in Paris that the steamer Himalaya was sunk in the Mediterranean as the result of an explosion.

There were 294 people aboard, of whom 178 were saved.

The Brazilian navy is co-operating with the American fleet in hunting submarines off South America.

Political correspondents anticipate that a number of the Mesopotamia culprits will promptly resign.

An important decision, relating to the Chief Commissioner's powers in matters of promotion, was given in the Industrial Court.

It was held that the Court could not interfere with the responsibility of the Chief Commissioner as to appointments.

A large number of members of the Glass Bottle Workers' Union were prosecuted for taking part in a strike.

The Acting Premier has received an offer by the British Engineers' Association to train Australian apprentices in England.

For the quarter ended March 31 the imports of Australian goods into Japan showed an increase of £707,489.

The Minister for Health made a statement yesterday in regard to the Government's efforts to preserve child life.

It is probable that the Nurses' Registration Bill will be one of the first measures brought forward next session.

Evidence was continued in No. 2 Jury Court yesterday in the action Petree v Knox, for alleged wrongful dismissal and slander.

Counsel for defendant addressed the jury without calling evidence in reply to plaintiff's case. The hearing is not finished.

Space for small shipments of Australian wines for hospital use is to be found on ships for England.

Mr. Hugh Ward, who was entertained by the Lord Mayor, thought the Conservatorium should be made a financial success.

The Minister for Education appealed to Mr. Ward to give young singers at the Conservatorium an opportunity of advancement.

Sir P. J. Foster has opened his campaign at Dubbo as a candidate for the Macquarie seat.

The dispute in connection with the colliery doctor question caused the stoppage of the Metropolitan mine at Helensburgh.

The boy strikers at the Randwick Tramway Workshops did not return to work yesterday, despite the union's efforts.

The Chief Commissioner has decided to close down the works. Over 1000 men will be thrown out of employment.

Colliery stoppages throughout the northern district are becoming more frequent. There were eight collieries idle yesterday.

Pastoralists regard the award given by Mr. Justice Higgins for station hands as excessive and ill-timed.

The locomotive engine-drivers are dissatisfied with the new conditions brought about by the Amended Railway Act.

A referendum of the Federated Flour Millers' Union is to be taken on the question of withdrawing affiliation with the P.L.U.

There was a keen demand for merino flock rams at the stud sales, the prices obtained being higher than last year.

A good inquiry prevailed for stud rams, the highest price realised being 310 guineas.

A moderate volume of business was transacted in investment stocks on the Stock Exchange yesterday. Values were firm.

The hardware markets were more concerned about stocks and prices than anything else.

The tinplate position was especially acute, as no shipments were coming forward.

Values of mining stocks were firm. The Westonian gold group showed a general hardening.

In Sussex-street an active market ruled for new-laid eggs, and supplies cleared readily at 1s 5d to 1s 6d.

There was a brisk inquiry for hams and bacon, and supplies proved ample for requirements.

A brisk business was recorded in cereal lines and late prices were well maintained.

At the Homebush sales the market for sheep and lambs was firm. Competition was keen, and Thursday's rates were maintained.

Cattle were more even than Thursday's market, and the average rates of that day's [illegible] throughout.

[illegible] generally, with some [illegible] north-easterly to north-easterly winds.

SALE.
SECOND DAY BARGAINS.

Every Article in every department, with the exception of a few proprietary lines (the prices of which we do not control), has been greatly reduced in price.

Many sections have "SPECIAL" BARGAINS in very limited quantities, which—whether advertised or not—are speedily cleared by the early shoppers, leaving those who arrive later to disappointment.

Therefore we quote goods here that we deem are in quantities sufficient to meet the demand.

However, that does not alter the fact that to secure the best bargains it is necessary to come early.

"VIYELLA" FABRIC
(Registered.)
SMART AND DURABLE.

It does not thicken, felt, or shrink in the wash, nor does it lose its smart, refined appearance.

"Viyella" is light in weight, warm, and comfortable, serviceable, and most economical in the long run. As it readily absorbs and throws off the body's moisture, chills are prevented.

Ideal for women's blouses, nightdresses, and underclothing; men's shirts and pyjamas; and children's frocks, underwear, and nightgowns.

Owing to the difficulties of transport and war requirements, it has not been possible to keep up full supplies of "Viyella," and we respectfully ask you to bear with suppliers if unable to immediately fill their book.

BANCO COURT.

(Before the Chief Justice.)

GRAHAM v NIXON.

The case was concluded in which William Graham and Arthur Graham sued Samuel Nixon, grazier, of Belmont, near Oaklands, for £543 10s damages for breach of a share-farming agreement.

Mr. Blacket, K.C., and Mr. Ferguson, instructed by Messrs. Whitby and Heavener, of Berrigan, by their Sydney agents, Messrs. Weaver and Allworth, appeared for the plaintiffs; and Mr. Ralston, K.C., and Mr. Mocatta, instructed by Mr. Rhys David Griffiths, of Berrigan, by his agents, Messrs. P. P. Colquhoun and King, for the defendant.

The jury awarded the plaintiffs £225. Stay of proceedings was refused.

CLAIM FOR £500.

Catherine Ann Blackburn claimed £500 damages from the Municipal Council of Wollongong in respect to personal injuries and damage to a sulky alleged to have been caused by the defendant council's servants. The plaintiff's case was that, while driving in a sulky, her vehicle was forced off the roadway by a traction engine belonging to the council and upset. She sustained a broken shoulder-blade and other injuries.

Mr. Mack, instructed by Mr. A. A. Lysaght, of Wollongong, by his Sydney agents, Messrs. Mahinson and d'Apice, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Sheridan, instructed by Mr. H. Cox, appeared for the defendant council, who pleaded not guilty.

The case stands part heard.

IN CHAMBERS.

(Before Mr. Justice Ferguson.)

GARBAGE RECEPTACLES.

Tinsley v Cameron.

Mr. Power, instructed by the Crown Solicitor (Mr. J. V. Tillett), appeared for the applicant, James Burton Tinsley, sanitary inspector; and Mr. Barton, instructed by Messrs. Higgins and Robinson, of Sydney and Wagga, for the respondent, Robert Cameron, licensee and occupier of the Exchange Hotel, Baylis-street, Wagga. Cameron was charged at Wagga, before Mr. C. J. B. Holme, P.M., for that on February 6 last he did not, after service of notice under order 51 of the bylaws of the municipality, provide a sufficient number of receptacles for the receipt of garbage and refuse on his premises. The magistrate, after hearing evidence on both sides, dismissed the summons, with £2 3s costs, being of opinion that the respondent had provided a sufficient number of receptacles for the purpose referred to. The complainant appealed, and the question was whether the magistrate's determination was erroneous in law.

His Honor said he was of opinion that the decision was not erroneous, and dismissed the appeal, with costs.

NO. 2 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Pring and a jury of 12.)

ACTION FOR DISMISSAL, ETC.

Petree v Knox.

Mr. Windeyer and Mr. Watt, instructed by Mr. G. E. Dale, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Shand, K.C., and Mr. H. E. Manning, instructed by Messrs. Minter, Simpson, and Co., for the defendant. This was an action brought by Cuthbert George Petree, civil engineer, against Edward W. Knox, managing director of the Colonial Sugar Refining Company, Ltd., to recover compensation for alleged wrongful dismissal and slander.

Evidence was continued. Marcus F. Brownrigg, assistant chemist to Mr. Thomas, said that he made a report as to the value of the process invented or discovered by Messrs. Petree and Thomas. As far as he knew, it was a correct estimate of the saving it would effect in the cost of production. Mr. Knox did not speak to him about the subject matter of the process. The report was made on the 29th March.

As a result of your investigation, can you say whether your estimate of the result of the process was fully borne out?

Mr. Shand objected to the evidence, and it was rejected.

Walter C. Watt, one of the directors of the C.S.R. Company, gave evidence that he first heard of the Petree-Thomas process about September. Mr. Knox made no explanation of the nature of the process to the board, but he read the plaintiff's memorandum. Witness did not understand the process, but he understood that it would effect a saving in production. If the board asked Mr. Knox questions he would answer them. He understood that the process had been developed and the patent obtained very largely in the time and from the salary paid by the company. Mr. Knox never gave him any information.

Can you tell me whether or not the board ever instructed Mr. Knox to acquire an assignment of the Australian and Fijian rights without paying for it?—I do not remember.

So far as you remember, did you ever know that Mr. Knox was claiming a monopoly of the patent for Australia and Fiji without paying for it?

Witness: That is a difficult question.

Mr. Windeyer: Can you answer it?—I can do so, but in my own way.

Mr. Windeyer: I do not want that.

Witness, continuing, said he remembered a minute or letter by Mr. Kater being read to the board, which commenced: "While prepared to accept the explanation of the officers, as to their position in the matter," etc. He thought that at the meeting referred to the board dealt with the question of Messrs. Petree and Thomas giving outsiders licenses to use the process. He thought at that time licenses had been granted to Drysdale and someone else to use the process for a certain period. Various papers and correspondence were on the table, and he could not say that there was any dissent from Mr. Kater's suggestion.

Was anything said about the value of the process?—There was an explanation by Petree and Thomas.

Did Mr. Knox at any time tell the board at that meeting that he had given permission to Messrs. Petree and Thomas to patent the process at their own expense?—Mr. Knox told the board that they were going to take out a patent, but not that it was to be taken out at their own expense.

Witness, continuing, said he remembered a letter being read to the board from Messrs. Petree and Thomas, in which they protested their loyalty to the company and a desire to act honourably by it. It was in reference to that that Mr. Kater wrote that he was prepared to take their explanation. Witness had no further information except from the documents that passed through the office. He (witness) took up the attitude that, in the case of officers receiving a salary from the company, any patent they took out while in the service was the company's patent. No attempt was made by Mr. Knox to explain the process to him. He remembered Mr. Knox referring to "mistakes and omissions in the past" with reference to negotiations with Messrs. Petree and Thomas in the matter of the process, but he did not recollect what they were, and no attempt was made to prove Mr. Knox was to the mistakes referred to. Speaking generally, there was a discussion as to certain matters being disclosed or divulged by these two officers. They were as to matters outside the company, and he thought Mr. Knox joined in the general discussion that took place at the board meeting. It was only Mr. Petree who was called upon to resign, as he was the prime mover in the matter. This witness gathered from letters which had come before the board. He thought a document now handed to him referred to Petree as the man who sold the licenses to persons outside the company on behalf of himself and Mr. Thomas. He thought he remembered two letters of protest by Mr. Thomas, but he did not recollect what happened in regard to them.

In cross-examination by Mr. Shand, witness said he believed the particular letter from Thomas was before the board.

From first to last, did you object to these salaried officers of the company selling a patent to mills competing with the company in Australia and Fiji while still officers of the company?—Yes.

Continuing, witness said he knew that the company had sanctioned a trial or test of the process at the Broadwater mill, and he knew that the company had incurred expense in doing so. He himself objected to information derived in testing the process as an improper thing to be given away to other people. He knew that Mr. Knox had written a letter to the board, dated December 11, stating that information of the process was given to persons outside the company by the patentees. He objected to Messrs. Petree and Thomas going on and selling in Australia their Australian rights to competitors of the company. He also objected to these two officers getting leave of absence in order to establish foreign agencies.

W. M. Thomas, recalled, said, in reply to Mr. Windeyer, that the process was complete before the trial at Broadwater. The trial only confirmed what was anticipated. He had perfected it in accordance with the specifications in February. At the trial at Broadwater he was in the course of his ordinary duties. He had other duties to carry out at Broadwater, besides the supervision of the experiment.

To Mr. Shand: He did not remember Mr. Petree asking for further time to conduct the experiments. Witness also gave an explanation as to his answer on Friday to his Honor's question, "And that was the rock you and Mr. Knox split upon?"

His Honor: It was only when you insisted upon your rights in Australia and Fiji that the trouble began?—Yes, that was when I was warned.

Mr. Shand, without calling any evidence in reply, addressed the jury, and said, with regard to Mr. Windeyer's invitation to Mr. Knox in his opening, that it must be remembered that plaintiff in his declaration charged defendant, among other things, with conspiracy with Mr. Kater and others to procure his dismissal wrongfully. That was a very serious charge, and therefore Mr. Knox was justified in not acceding to any suggestion of a settlement, and leaving the issues to be determined on the verbal and documentary evidence. He contended that there was not the slightest evidence of any conspiracy, and he asked his Honor to direct the jury in regard to each of the counts in the plaintiff's declaration that there was not a tittle of evidence to support it. There was nothing to show that Mr. Knox committed any illegal act in what he did in regard to the whole matter, and, in any case, he submitted that there was no evidence whatever to support the fourth count (slander).

His Honor: I do not think there is. What do you say, Mr. Windeyer?

Mr. Windeyer contended that there was abundant evidence to support it.

At the instance of his Honor, Mr. Watt was recalled and examined as to two letters which he said he believed Mr. Knox read to the board, and upon which the slander count was mainly based.

Mr. Shand then continued his address, which is not concluded.

IN EQUITY.

(Before the Chief Judge, Mr. Justice Simpson.)

£3000 LIFE POLICY DISPUTE.

Beard v Perpetual Trustee Company, Ltd.

Mr. F. R. Jordan, and Mr. R. H. Mason, instructed by Mr. H. O. Marshall, appeared for the plaintiff, Samuel John Bryce Beard; and Mr. D. Maughan, and Mr. Claude Weston, instructed by Mr. P. W. Walker, for the defendant, the Perpetual Trustee Company, Ltd.

This was a matter connected with a policy on the life of the plaintiff. The statement of claim alleged that, in January, 1897, the plaintiff, then 18 years of age, insured his life for £3000 with the Australian Mutual Provident Society. In March, 1897, plaintiff, at the request of his grandmother, Harriett Beard (who stood in loco parentis to him), assigned to her the policy and its benefits, for a nominal consideration of 10s.

The plaintiff claimed that the assignment was executed by him on the understanding that his grandmother should hold the policy as trustee for him. The annual premiums of £56 2s 6d were paid by Mrs. Harriett Beard as advancements for her grandson, the plaintiff. Mrs. Beard, who died in January, 1905, made a will four months previously, in which she made certain provision for the plaintiff. She directed the payment of the premiums on the policy out of the residuary estate. After several changes of the original trustees of the will, the defendant company was appointed sole trustee.

The plaintiff now desires to exercise his right to deal with the policy, which is still in full force, but the defendant company refuses to recognise that the plaintiff has any rights. Plaintiff asks the Court to declare that Harriett Beard took the assignment of the policy as his trustee, and that her payments of the premiums were advancements on his behalf. He also asked that, if necessary, the defendant be restrained by injunction from dealing with the policy.

For the defence, it was alleged that the plaintiff, by his laches and acquiescence, was debarred from obtaining any relief, and that he had elected to take under the will. It was also contended that, in any event, the plaintiff must make good to the defendant, or set-off the value of the policy and all premiums that were paid thereon.

The plaintiff, who is blind, gave evidence. The case stands part heard.

INDUSTRIAL COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Heydon.)

CHIEF COMMISSIONER'S POWERS.

An important decision relating to the absolute powers of the Chief Commissioner in matters of promotion was given by his Honor on an appeal case stated by the Chief Industrial Magistrate. In this case the Chief Commissioner had promoted to a vacancy in the second-class an officer in the third class, over the head of another officer of that class, who was in his senior. The officer who had thus been passed over appealed to a board constituted for the purpose, and the board decided in his favour. The Chief Commissioner was then prosecuted for an alleged breach of the Act of the Food Supply and Distribution, No. 2 Group, No. 7 Board, in failing to act on the appeal board's decision, but the magistrate dismissed the information.

His Honor said the award provided that advancement from class to class, as far as the efficiency working of the service permitted, should be according to seniority, and that, as to any dispute, there should be a right of appeal to a board, to be constituted by the Chief Commissioner. The question was, whether the decision of the board in favour of the officer who appealed was binding on the Chief Commissioner. His Honor held that it was not. The Wages Board had no power to appoint an appeal board which could overrule the Chief Commissioner on a question of promotion, and, as a matter of fact, had not done so. The Government Railways Act, moreover, clearly provided that the Chief Commissioner was to be the final judge as to all questions of promotion, and, in his Honor's opinion, the Chief Commissioner could not divest himself of that responsibility and hand it over to the departmental board. The Chief Commissioner had created a board with authority to inquire and report, but was not bound by its findings.

"I am also strongly inclined to think," added his Honor, "that the Legislature never intended this Court to interfere with the responsibility of the Chief Commissioner as to appointments, classifications, promotions, degradations, or dismissals. No doubt in this particular case the complainant has the support of the appeal board in his favour. That is a very strong fact, indeed; but the Chief Commissioner can estimate its weight, and the Railway Act has put the last word in his mouth."

The appeal was dismissed, with £3 3s costs.

STRIKE PROSECUTIONS.

Mr. Ferguson appeared on behalf of the Minister for Labour to prosecute members of the Glass Bottle Workers' Union for taking part in a strike in connection with the glass bottle works at Waterloo.

Mr. Mocatta, instructed by Mr. E. R. Abigail, who appeared for the defendants, asked for a postponement. There were 127 defendants, he said, but 30 had not yet been served with summonses. The others were only served last week, and as it had been necessary to refer to the general secretary in Melbourne, he had not had time to prepare his case. He understood for one thing, however, that the men had been working under a Federal agreement, and the Court would have to consider whether they could be prosecuted by the State Government.

Mr. Ferguson opposed an adjournment. The matter, he said, was as important one, and since April 24 the whole of the glassworkers in the largest establishment in Australia had been out. Enormous damage had been done, and it was only by the struggles of the employers, assisted by a few loyalists, that the works had been kept going at all. Every day the employers and witnesses for the prosecution had to attend the Court meant the works being practically closed down. The men had been offered arbitration, but there was this persistent breach of the law, and they were picketing the works and attempting to (illegible) stores. In the circumstances, he (illegible) for the immediate hearing of the case.

His Honor granted an adjournment till the following morning.

Mr. Ferguson: If my friend can get his clients to go back to work I have no objection to a postponement till Friday.

MARINE ENGINEERS.

His Honor reserved judgment on points submitted by the chairman of the Shipping Group No. 2 (Engineers' Deep Sea) Board; Mr. Broomfield appeared for the Coastal Steamship Owners' Association, Mr. Maxwell for the Minister for Labour; and Mr. P. H. Sullivan for the Society of Marine Engineers.

(Before Judge Rolin.)

The application of the Staff Officers' Association for an award under the Gangers' Board is part heard.

(Before Judge Curlewis.)

The New South Wales Clothing Manufacturers' Association applied for variation of the award of the Clothing Trades Group No. 8 (Cutters, etc) Board. Mr. Vero Reed appeared for the applicants and Mr. Thompson for the union. The application was granted.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Scholes and Juries.)

Mr. A. F. Dawson for the Crown.

NOT GUILTY.

Edward Sexton, who pleaded not guilty to a charge of robbery in company, was defended by Mr. Loxton. The case for the Crown was that on the night of June 3 a man named Charles Suggate met the accused and two other men in University Park. Sexton asked Suggate for a match, and grabbed him as he was about to comply with the request, while Sexton's companions robbed him of a watch and £2 in money. For the defence, it was shown, however, that Sexton was not in the vicinity of the park at the time of the robbery and the jury returned a verdict of not guilty, Sexton being discharged.

REMANDED FOR SENTENCE.

Thomas William Clowry and Isaac Woolley were charged with having broken and entered the dwelling-house of William Solomons, at Newtown, on June 8, and stealing a watch and £2 17s 6d, the property of Sylvia May Hughes, and two finger rings, two pendants, one watch chain, one brooch, one scarf pin, one watch, one sovereign case, one knife, one book, two wallets, and 10s, the property of William Solomons. There was a second count of receiving. Clowry pleaded guilty to the first count, and was remanded for sentence. Woolley pleaded not guilty to both counts. The jury returned a verdict of guilty against Woolley on the first count, and prisoner was remanded for sentence.

ACQUITTED.

George Smith, a young man, who pleaded not guilty to a charge of indecent assault, was defended by Mr. W. D. M'Mahon. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty, and Smith was discharged.

PLEAS OF GUILTY.

The following accused persons entered pleas of guilty to the charges specified, and were remanded for sentence:—

Isabella Cameron Yule, larceny of one watch and chain and pendant, and door key, the property of William Anthony Gallon, on June 6, at Rozelle.

John Matthew Caldwell, Frank Samuel Dickin, and Sydney Joseph Berry, breaking and entering the shop of Florence Matterson and another, at Brighton-le-Sands, on June 9, and stealing a quantity of groceries and tobacco.

Walter Cuthbert Moverley Davis, bigamy.

Robert Lee, false pretences, at Balmain, on May 10.

Arthur Smith, larceny of cameras, the property of the Herbert Small Proprietary, Ltd., June 17 (two counts).

James Edwin Murray, larceny of £47 6s 10d, the property of John Woods, on June 22.

Thomas Harris, larceny of one jacket, the property of Farmer and Co., Ltd.

ALLEGED LARCENY.

Before Mr. M. S. Clarke, S.M., William Goldsborough, 43, of Canterbury, pleaded not guilty to three charges of stealing. It was alleged that the defendant stole spoons, forks, knives, etc., valued at £7, from the Wentworth Hotel, Ltd. The second charge was that of stealing similar articles, valued at £8, from the Hotel Australia, Ltd., and the third charge was that of stealing spoons, forks, etc., valued at £1 5s, from the Hotel Metropole, Ltd. The three charges were heard together. Evidence showed that the defendant was in the habit of buying refuse food for pigs from the prosecutors. Detectives went to the defendant's house, and found there many of the articles, branded with the owners' names.

The defendant pleaded that, because he paid for the refuse, he had a right to everything found in pigs' food buckets. He had done business for eight years with the Wentworth Hotel. He was given a good character by the police. The magistrate inflicted fines of £10, £2, and £5 on the respective charges.

Mr. Anthony R. Book, Professor of Languages, Malvern (Vic), writes that he would not be without Clements Tonic in the house on any account. He tells his friends to take it.—Advt.

THE ADVENTURES OF MARMADUKE CLEGG IN THE YEAR 1688.

BY MORICE GERARD.

[ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.]

CHAPTER IV.

ON THE ROAD TO COLESWOOD MANOR.

I mentioned at the beginning of this narrative certain reasons which brought me to England—I call them "confessions," not because I am ashamed of anything herein related, but from the simple fact that I tell the story without reserve. I speak of myself as I am; "I nothing extenuate nor set down aught in malice," as Master Shakespeare says.

There was one small personal matter to which I made reference which helped me to decide about coming to England; as it was the circumstance out of which came the experience I am about to relate, I set it down here.

An uncle of mine, my mother's brother, a certain Marmaduke Festing, after whom I took my Christian name, died while I was abroad, and left me a small estate in the County of Kent, some twelve miles from Ashford. When my uncle died it was administered for me by his steward. As I had no immediate use for the moneys accruing from the estate, I had given instructions that they should be laid up until such a time as the outlying lands came into the market, when purchases were to be judiciously made, so as to extend the property which had come to me.

It was pleasant when I was fighting to the wars, and winning some share of credit, to picture my old age, with perhaps a wife and a son or two to carry on the name of Clegg, or as a Kentish squire riding over my broad acres, saluted by my tenants, a hawk at my wrist, or a pack of hounds before me.

When in my tent or at some obscure lodging in a fortified city between Rhine and Weser I would say to myself, "I am Marmaduke Clegg of Coleswood Manor, in the County of Kent;" or after performing some deed which men talked of over camp fires, I ventured a little further in my flight of fancy, conferring a great dignity on my redoubtable self: then I was styled "Sir Marmaduke Clegg of the Manor of Coleswood in the County of Kent;" or even—but what was on very rare occasions—"My Lord Clegg, etc."

Early in the year 1688 I received intimation of the death of the steward, whose name was Jonas Barton; his son Timothy wrote to apprise me of the fact, and to ask as a great favour if he might succeed to his father's office, promising to further my interests to the utmost.

I had assented for the time being, there being no other course open to me, but I decided that on my return to England I would visit the Manor and see what kind of man Timothy Barton might be. His father, Jonas, I had known as a boy, Timothy at that time being a stripling, two or three years younger than I.

A week intervened between the adventure which earned me the ring, now on the little finger of my right hand, before I set out to carry to a conclusion the intention I had formed of riding to Coleswood Mana.

The horse Mistress Garnet had recommended I had ridden each day since, and found it so much to my satisfaction that I had purchased it, with its equipment, from the owner.

I bade Mistress Garnet adieu, intimating that I might return in a few days, or that I might be detained for a week or two. I left my belongings in her hands, only taking with me such clothes as I might need in a haversack, which, like myself, had seen a good deal of service, and a well-filled purse attached to a leathern belt round my waist. The horse I named Leo, as soon as it became my personal property.

Leo and I started in excellent spirits; we had the world before us. There was no need to hurry; an inn parlour would satisfy the rider when he needed a meal, or a best bedroom when he elected to sleep; while some good Kentish oats and a well-aired stall or loose-box was all the horse wanted to reward his exertions. Add to this that it was the month of May, when the whole world was fresh, every copplce and hedgerow burgeoning into life, birds singing lustily from every elm, the most joyous season of the year, and you may know that the conditions, the spring well advanced and exhibiting a mellow softness, fully satisfied the utmost requirements of Marmaduke Clegg, long a stranger to the green fields and undulating, fertile hilltops of an English shire.

Ashford was the point for which I was making. A signpost here and there, indicating some township en route, or a question and answer exchanged with some yokel by the wayside, sufficing to assure me that I was on the right road.

Now and again I carolled a merry stave, a French chanson, a Dutch marching song, or an old Kentish ballad, which I had learnt years agone, and which came back to me now as if summoned from some sleeping-place by the genius of the road. Now and again I overtook a carrier's waggon, or a muleteer with three or four laden beasts carrying merchandise from one town to another.

Once or twice I took to the grass beneath the hedgerow, to allow of a great coach and half a dozen steaming horses to pass me by, dragging heavily on a road deep with ruts, still bearing traces of winter usage.

Leo and I had our meal at a village inn after which we rested for an hour before starting again. The afternoon was hot, and the roads were heavy, some rain having fallen in this district during the previous night I ride fourteen stone, and was not minded to put my horse to unnecessary exertion, but with asking the way, and once or twice missing it, my attention, my intention of reaching Maidstone on that first night was frustrated.

I struck the coaching road about six of the clock, having turned into it from a cross-cut, which I was assured saved time and distance. Some half a mile further on I sighted a hostelry, standing back from the highway, with a big elm erected in the centre of the courtyard. The sign bore the inscription of a huge hen, attended by a number of diminutive chickens, which no doubt counted for the name of the hostelry.

The whole appearance of the house was attractive: a doorway stood wide open, windows on either side glowed in the sun, the diamond-paned casements showing clean and bright. Prosperity and good care were evidenced on all sides. I have not travelled about the world without learning how to detect signs of this kind. I made up my mind instantly that here we would stop. Leo and I. The horse was evidently of the same opinion, for he turned into the square cobble-stoned yard without direction on my part.

An ostler came out directly to take the horse, and a fat landlord, in a white apron, with a steel skewer at once side, fastened to a belt, bowed me a welcome.

"Can you find me a bed, Master Landlord?" I asked.

"With great pleasure, your honor; as sweet and clean and well aired as any between Dover and London."

"That will suit me exactly. If you have one of those chickens grown up, put him on the spit, and I will promise to make good account of him."

"It shall be done, sir, and a slice of ham, of my wife's curing, shall accompany it."

"That will do nicely. Give me also a stoup of ale, but I will go round first of all to see after the housing of my horse."

"You need not be anxious on that score, sir; we take as much care here of an animal as we do of his master."

"I am an old campaigner," I replied, "and with me the horse comes first."

In a few minutes the landlord brought me out a flagon, which I emptied with not a little satisfaction, for my throat was dry after the long ride.

Then Leo bedded down, after having a bran mash; some chaff and oats were placed in the manger, according to my direction. Leo promptly turned the chaff out and nuzzled for the oats.

"We will pick up the rest, sir, before the morning," the ostler remarked.

In a corner of the loose-box was placed a bucket of water. I went out of the stable well satisfied.

"You have not many travellers here to-day," was my comment, as I noticed empty stalls one after another.

"No, sir. Sometimes we are that full we hardly know how to deal with it. We are expecting another sent later on, but that is all, so far as I know, sir."

I strolled into the hen yard at the back of the inn. Poultry-keeping was evidently a favourite occupation, and no doubt it was a profitable one—fowls, turkeys, geese, ducks, guinea-fowls: many of them were trooping in now, making for their roosting places for the night.

Between the yard and the orchard beyond was a shipmen empty now, because the cows had gone back to the fields after being milked. The whole scene struck me with satisfaction, as homelike and English. I had not looked upon its like during my twenty years of wandering.

A well-favoured rosy-cheeked maiden summoned me to the inn, and I stood leaning over a gate, looking at the orchard, where the apple blossom was growing red in its first state.

My supper was ready.

I fell to it heartily enough, and had just finished when a stranger was shown into the parlour. He was a tall, fine-looking man, of gentleman-like dress and appearance.

MOTHER'S FAVOURITE.

Foolish mothers dose their babies with home-made concoctions or something recommended by a neighbour, and perhaps upset the little stomach and make the baby cross and uncomfortable by this mistaken economy.

Wise mothers do not experiment with untried nostrums, but depend on a remedy which has been compiled from the scientific prescription of a famous physician, and is designed to banish the cold without upsetting the digestive organs. Dr. Sheldon's New Discovery is this remedy, and mothers may give it to their babies, secure in the knowledge that coughs and colds will no longer rack the little bodies.

DO YOU DREAD THE COLD WEATHER?

Most people do, for it means coughs and colds, but you need not fear if you have a bottle of Dr. Sheldon's New Discovery in the house. A dose taken at the beginning of a cold will relieve and prevent Influenza, Bronchitis, and all Throat Troubles.

DEMOCRACY AND PEACE.

The Allied statesmen do well to call the attention of the people of Germany and of their own countries to the distinction which they are prepared to draw between a democracy and an absolute monarchy in framing terms of peace. It was first emphasised by President Wilson in his message to Congress; it was adopted and analysed by Mr. Balfour in his speech at Washington; and has now received a prominent place in a statement by Mr. Lloyd George. A distinction of such importance would have been made in earlier statements of the Allied peace terms if Ministers had been free to use them. It has no doubt been implicit in the claim of both Great Britain, France, and Italy to be the champions of freedom and of the rights of small nations to an independent existence. But it was only after the occurrence of two almost simultaneous events—the Russian revolution and the intervention of the United States—that it could be used with full effect. The two sets of belligerents are now as sharply divided by their forms of government as by their methods of warfare. On the one side are the nations which cannot for any length of time be committed to a policy contrary to their wishes; on the other are the four empires or monarchies—Germany, Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria, and Turkey—which can be governed for years by a man or a committee without consulting the people. The danger has been variously described in the different Allied countries. In America, where kings are still considered to be the root of all evil, it has been connected with the influence of the dynasty in Great Britain with the class which is identified with Prussian militarism. But in each country the reason for the distinction is the same. It is not suggested that a democracy is incapable of committing or instigating acts of aggression, and under the conditions of three years ago of plunging into a war. But it is held that a democracy would not be capable of a continuous and systematic policy directed to the subjection of pacific and friendly neighbours. Mr. Balfour estimated the virtues and the weaknesses of a democracy admirably in his address in the American House of Representatives. All free assemblies have made blunders, and sometimes have committed crimes. "But it is only a military despotism of the German type that can, through generations, pursue steadily and remorselessly, unscrupulously and appallingly the object of dominating civilisation and mankind." The distinction which the Allied statesmen are asked to regard is, therefore, founded on something more substantial than a belief that the constitution of Great Britain, France, or America would necessarily be suitable to Germany. Mr. Lloyd George disclaims any wish to interfere with the internal arrangements of the enemy countries, which would indeed be to assume the levelling mission of the Germans in a new but not less objectionable form. He and his colleagues have examined the history of this war and have derived their peace terms from their investigations. They conclude that if they have to deal with a new Germany they can admit her into a league of peace, and accept her word as her guarantee. If Germany after the war is to be governed by the militarists or pan-Germans, or by some Prussian clique with a new name, then the Allies must anticipate another period of preparation, followed by another war. That such a disaster could not be averted by a league of peace we know from the fate of the Belgian treaty and of the Hague conventions. The only safeguard against renewed aggression by a militarist Germany would be a continuance of this war until defeat had either converted the enemy or deprived him of his most dangerous weapons.

Mr. Lloyd George has plainly offered the Germans an alternative by which they may secure peace immediately. He can have meant no less than that if the Central Powers are willing to admit popular control of their internal and external policy the Allies will open negotiations. We know of no source of information open to citizens of the allied countries by which they may judge whether there is the slightest chance of such an offer being accepted. President Wilson's speech, in which he said he had no quarrel with the German people, was very savagely answered in the Reichstag. The President, Dr. Kampf, declared, amid tumultuous applause that "this attempt to sow discord among the German people will have no effect, and President Wilson will bite upon granite." The generation of 1870 was positive that the Germans could not subsist under any government but their present autocracy. Bismarck had no admiration of his masters, but was positive that the Hohenzollerns were indispensable for Prussia, and the other dynasties for their several States. If we could judge Germany to-day by her Junkers and by her National Liberals, we should believe that the obstinate contempt which Bismarck showed for Parliamentary government was still the prevailing creed. The evidence that this is not so is furnished by the growing vote in favour of the Social Democrats who had come to be the largest party in the country, and the largest but one in the Reichstag. The Socialists have broken their pledges during the war by working in co-operation with and as agents for the Government. But neither their patriotic votes nor their intrigues among the Socialists in Allied countries have shown a change in their attitude towards an absolute monarch. Beside them must be considered writers like Harden and the Munich professor quoted yesterday, who have felt the isolation into which Germany has been reduced. President Wilson has appeared to suggest that a revolution in Germany is much nearer than it would appear to be on the evidence available to newspaper readers. The advocates of change have now an additional inducement in the promise that a democratic Germany might consider peace at any time. The change may at any time be instigated from above. With the fate of other monarchs before him the Emperor and his circle may be prepared to reduce their powers now lest a crushing defeat should bring them to ruin. Such an action might save some hundreds of thousands of lives and material of the utmost value. But while the nation is organised for war it can hardly come from below, and can never be a contingency on which the Allies would count in forming their plans.

FITNESS FOR APPOINTMENT.

In a sentence or two Lord Sydenham has given the moral of the Mesopotamia report better than in a dozen pages of print. According to our cablegrams he wrote in an article to one of the London papers that "in the selection for political, administrative, and military posts, fitness for the appointment must be the only consideration." In this awful war the fruit of failure in these spheres is to be seen in a series of misadventures involving the sacrifice of innumerable lives and the absolute waste of millions of money; and both in Gallipoli and Mesopotamia the criminal folly of appointing men to vital posts because they were somebody's favourite, or were entitled to command by seniority, has been written up for the whole world to read. Nothing could be more startling than the disclosures of incompetence made through the reports of the commissioners concerned with these sections of the great allied offensive against Turkey as Germany's ally, and nothing is more conclusive than the lesson set for the allied nations. Lord Sydenham has just put into words the common sense verdict of the world. But his moral for us goes much deeper than the war, though every branch of our activity in civil and political life to-day has its bearing upon the war. We are apt to forget that it is just as vital to our existence as a people to be efficient citizens at home as to be valiant soldiers abroad. It is true that after three years of war we have actually begun to apply purely business principles to the administration of the Defence Department; and three of our ablest business men have been asked to look into a matter that should have been settled at the outset. But what a weary waiting it has been!

The conflict of ideas as between the man whose business is war and the man to whom business has been a training has so far resulted in the worst kind of waste, because the public funds voted to prosecute the war have not only been squandered when they should have been thriftily handled, but they have been made the sport of thieves and gamblers. The business man, whose training in peace times has forced him to guard against peculation and fraud, was not asked to help in conserving public money because he was a civilian, though the difficulty was soon overcome by putting civilians into uniform when transport and other problems had to be solved. Yet this did not go far enough. Lord Sydenham's moral on the Mesopotamia report touches the root of all administration, since efficiency, irrespective of political creed or status in seniority, must govern appointments in State and Commonwealth if we are to survive. This war is testing the foundations right down. It is shattering reputations in the military sphere, and is making records in unexpected places both there and on the administrative and political side of Allied activity; but especially is it putting the British Empire through a series of uncomfortable tests. Here in Australia democracy is going to be found out for good or ill. So far we have been content to let our public business be done by politicians with "spoils to the victors" written upon their banners; and appointments have been made and are being projected to positions with but small regard for the axiom that fitness must be the only consideration. Men have been chosen as fit too often because they had a political pull, and a gradual deterioration in efficiency in administration and in public life has been the result. Well, Lord Sydenham has drawn our attention to the moral of the Mesopotamia report with its demand for fitness in every appointment made. "Unless democracy grasps this essential principle it will surely fail." That is the beginning and the end of the warning for Australia to-day.

MUNICIPAL RESULTS.

It cannot be said that any revolutionary change has resulted from last Saturday's elections. With the widened franchise a good deal of interest was aroused in the various municipalities—though not nearly as much as the occasion warranted—and in the end the men selected for aldermen were the best of those offering for the unpaid honours at so many council tables. It has always to be remembered that municipal life throughout British dominions has carried little thanks and many kicks with it. The work has been done through generations as a duty well paid in the doing of it; and by and large the welfare of innumerable cities and towns has been guarded at a minimum of cost. British common-sense has come in again and again to save the situation, and in spite of party politicians, axe grinders, knaves, and fools the great machine of local government has rumbled along without real let or hindrance in the shape of corruption or collapse. It is a matter for congratulation that in this State another start can be made unhampered by P.L.L. machinations or by the efforts of those who think that money contributed by the people is fair game. But the years before us threaten to be hard. Economy and sound works administration were never so urgently called for; and the ability of the newly-elected councils will be tested from the start. The burden laid upon the backs of aldermen is sure to become heavier because the payers of rates—ultimately the whole community—may have to face additional State and Federal taxation sooner or later. Already the ratepayers have as much on their backs as they can carry with the increase in the cost of living due to war conditions. There has been an advance in wages everywhere, and the price of materials has mounted up in many branches of industry. Taxes upon land and incomes have fallen together, making anxious hearts with each call of the taxgatherer. Local government must be carried on, however, and the same disabilities govern its operations in rising wages and advancing prices. More and more work seems to be needed with revenues that can hardly be expanded except under serious protests from everybody concerned. Clearly the situation all round calls for efficiency and stern economy. This need not involve cheeseparing, for a good officer well paid may save his salary many times over. But it does involve a realisation of personal responsibility on the part of every alderman elected or re-elected to office. Not one should allow himself to feel that his opinion or oversight does not matter. Every honest, capable brain and eye counts in this campaign of small things; and it is the successful handling of small things that eventually will win even the war against Germany.

IN MEMORIAM.

RETURN THANKS.

Mr. A. A. COLLINS, 322 Addison-road, Petersham, and FAMILY, desire to return THANKS to relatives and friends for kind sympathy received during their and bereavement; also Dr. A. W. Mobin for professional services, and to Miss Annie Fletcher, Cremorne, for kindness shown in the loss of his beloved wife and their darling mother.

Mrs. CLAUDE W. H. JAY wishes to express her deep gratitude to all those who by personal expressions of sympathy, letters, and beautiful flowers tried to comfort her in her recent irreparable loss; especially Sister Monro and staff of H Ward, Randwick Hospital, for their unfailing kindness and attention to her late beloved husband.

Madame SALOMON and Mdlle. SALOMON, of St Telouit-street, Leichhardt, desire to return their sincere THANKS to all kind friends, also the Union Franco-aise, the Alliance Francaise, the employees of Louis Gille and Co., the floral tributes, marks of sympathy and respect, received by them during their bereavement of their beloved husband and father.

FEDERAL FINANCES.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The secretary of the Federal Treasury (Mr. Collins) to-day made available certain figures relating to the financial operations of the Commonwealth for the year ended June 30. He stated that, as a result of returns received since the Treasurer, Sir John Forrest, made his recent financial statement in Parliament, the position had been considerably improved, and it would now be possible to carry forward a larger sum to the next year's operations than had been anticipated. Certain details were still awaited from some of the States, and a complete statement of revenue and expenditure for the year just closed could not, therefore, be made at present. When Sir John Forrest made his financial statement on June 14, he estimated the total receipts for the year, including £2,500,000 carried forward from the previous year, at £35,575,300, and the expenditure out of revenue at £35,448,414, leaving a surplus of £126,886 to be carried forward. The figure received since that statement was delivered, however, show that the balance to be carried forward will be larger than that. This improvement is due to the receipt of revenue in excess of the estimate, and the non-expenditure of money which it was expected would be required. Regarding the non-expenditure of money included in the estimates submitted by the Treasurer last month, Mr. Collins explained, however, that large liabilities had been incurred which would not be shown in the year's expenditure, because the bills had not yet come in.

The figures which Mr. Collins made available to-day related to pensions and maternity allowances. These figures show that 44,994 war pensions have already been granted, 14,168 being from New South Wales. The annual liability to the Commonwealth represented by the 44,994 pensions, is £1,638,799. During the year 132,272 maternity allowance claims were granted, as against 120,865 in 1915-16, and 138,324 in 1914-15. On June 19 there were 93,761 old-age pensions in force, and 813 applications for pensions were under consideration. On the same date there were 26,796 invalid pensions in force, and 868 applications in course of settlement.

PERSONAL.

VICE-REGAL.

His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor and Lady Cullen entertained his Grace the Primate and Mrs. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Knox, Mr. and Mrs. Consett Stephen, at dinner at Government House last evening.

Mr. S. Shimizu, Consul-General for Japan, has received a cablegram from the Japanese Minister for Foreign Affairs, stating that he has been promoted to the highest rank in the Consular service of Japan, called "Chokunin." The other Japanese Consuls-General in the world with whom Mr. Shimizu now holds equal rank, are those of San Francisco, Honolulu, Shanghai, and Mukden (Manchuria). In all of which places there is a much larger Japanese population, and consequently considerably larger Japanese interests than in the Commonwealth of Australia. The message further stated that Mr. E. Amau, who has held the position of Vice-Consul in Sydney for the last two years and a half, has been transferred to London as an attache of the Japanese Embassy there, under Viscount Chinda.

Mr. J. H. Anderson, Acting Consul-in-Chief for Sweden in British Australasia, will leave Sydney shortly to visit New Zealand on official business.

The Speaker of the New South Wales Legislative Assembly (Mr. J. J. Cohen), Mr. Richard Teece, and Mr. A. W. Meeks, M.L.C., representing the Australia Day Fund in New South Wales, arrived in Melbourne yesterday, and are staying at Menzies' Hotel. They are delegates to the fund's conference, which opens at Federal Parliament House on Wednesday.

ROUND LENS.

ENEMY DEFENCES CAPTURED.

LONDON, July 2.

Field-Marshal Sir Douglas Haig in Sunday's communiques reports further successful operations on the north bank of the Souchez River, following upon the progress made on Sunday southward of Lens.

SUNDAY, ISSUED 3.20 P.M.:—

Following up yesterday's success south of Lens, we attacked last night on the north bank of the Souchez River, and captured the enemy's defences on a half-mile front south-west and west of the town. We successfully carried out a raid last night north-east of Epehy.

As a result of hostile raids east of Gouzeaucourt and near Hermies we captured a few Germans.

SUNDAY, ISSUED 11.35 P.M.

There has been considerable enemy artillery fire in the Scarpe Valley, in the neighbourhood of Lens and north of the Lys River.

During June we captured 3686 Germans, including 175 officers, 67 guns (including two heavy guns), 102 trench mortars, 345 machine guns, and great quantities of other material.

FIGHTING ON FRENCH FRONT.

FIERCE ENEMY ATTACK.

The French communiques report a fierce enemy attack east of Cerny, on the Aisne, and a continued artillery struggle on the left of the Meuse (north-west of Verdun).

SUNDAY, ISSUED 4.15 P.M.:—

Despite a recrudescence of the bombardment east of Cerny (Aisne front) only local engagements occurred in the sector of Cerny-Allies, where our grenadiers repulsed enemy attempts at various points.

The enemy violently bombarded our front lines in the region east of Reims.

Powerful enemy raids east of La Pompelle, north and north-east of Brunay, cost the enemy serious losses without gaining any results.

The artillery struggle continues intense in the region of Avocourt Wood, Hill 304, and at Mort Homme. Our fire smashed up an attack on Avocourt Redoubt. A lively engagement occurred west of Mort Homme around one of our advanced posts, which was lost and retaken five times, being finally abandoned by both sides because gunfire had completely destroyed the defences.

MONDAY, ISSUED 12.10 A.M.:—

In the Cerny-Allies sector the bombardment with big calibre shells redoubled in intensity towards the end of the night. Shortly afterwards a most violent enemy attack was made east of Cerny, on a front of 500 metres, on both sides of the Allies-Paissy Road.

The enemy occupied a line of trenches which had been levelled by shells and evacuated by us. Our concentrated artillery fire wrought great havoc among the enemy, who, despite all efforts, were unable to push the attack further. The artillery contest continued with the utmost activity in this sector throughout the day.

Intermittent artillery fire proceeded elsewhere, and there was a lively struggle on the left of the Meuse, at Hill 304, and in the Mort Homme sector.

GERMAN REPORT.

(Admiralty—per Wireless Press.)

A German official report states: The French failed to recapture the ground they lost at Chemin-des-Dames and on the west bank of the Meuse.

We repulsed three French attacks on our new trenches southward of La Bovelle Farm, and stormed lines further eastward, as far as the Allies-Paissy Road. We captured in three days ten officers and 650 men.

GERMANY SHORT OF GUNS.

A "Morning Post" special correspondent, in an article dealing with the position on the West front, states: There are abundant indications that the Germans are short of guns and ammunition. Although many guns have been massed at certain points the rest of the line has been skinned in order to do so. The British counter-battery work never ceases. When an enemy battery has been detected, suddenly, without warning, anything from 150 to 500 British heavy shells are turned on the spot. In this way it is estimated that the British artillery has destroyed 1200 Germans guns within 23 weeks.

BOMBARDMENT OF OSTEND.

Aeroplane photographs of the recent bombardment of Ostend show little damage was done to residential portions. There is much wreckage of wharfs, destroyers, submarine shelters, and the pier.

A bombardment of the coast has continued for over a week.

GERMANS SHELL DUNKIRK.

German long-range guns fired 48 shells at Dunkirk, killing a few civilians.

AMERICAN TROOPS IN FRANCE.

The "Daily Telegraph's" correspondent at a French port states that while General Pershing (who commands the American expeditionary forces) and the commander of the American escorting squadron were exchanging compliments with the French Admiral, the German prisoners in the vicinity were pulling long faces. They were aware that there had never been a more complete defeat of the U boat warfare than the safe arrival of the American troops. The transports have unscathed brought to the French front besides troops what was even a more valuable help, namely, workmen. The French describe the assistance already brought by the Americans as of priceless value.

AMERICAN EXPORTS.

POSITION OF NEUTRALS.

LONDON, July 2.

An official statement has been published in Washington, based on figures compiled in England, which shows that Germany has obtained from neutrals sufficient food rations for the entire German armies on the East front, and also sufficient fats to supply 7,500,000 soldiers. "Exports from the United States to neutrals," the document states, "makes this possible." The efforts being made by neutrals to lighten the incidence of the expected drastic embargo on exports are believed to be causing a delay in the actual operation of the embargo.

Professor Eulenburg is reported from Geneva to have written an article published in the "Munchner Post" stating: Politically the hostility of the United States is not without significance for our world position. We lose at the same time the sympathies of many circles.

Professor Eulenburg quotes conclusive figures to show how Germany will suffer after the war if America follows Britain's example, and interferes with Germany's trade with neutrals. He adds, "We are looked upon as a nation ruled by absolute government, from whom free nations run away."

The "Munchner Post," commenting on the article, remarks:—"There are still many leading German politicians who do not grasp the grave significance of the German-American conflict."

ITALY AND THE ALLIES.

A Rome message states that the Chamber of Deputies has passed a motion of confidence in the Government.

The Premier, Signor Boselli, expressed Italy's intention to continue the war together with her Allies to a victorious finish.

Socialists voted with the minority.

STEAMER LOST.

It is officially reported in Paris that the steamer Himalaya was sunk in the Mediterranean, as the result of an explosion.

There were 204 people aboard, of whom 176 were saved.

No civilians were aboard.

The Himalaya, which was chartered by the Messageries Maritimes, sank at daybreak on June 22.

[There are two Himalayas, one (5929 tons) belonging to the P. and O. Company, and the other (5526 tons) to the Messageries Maritimes.]

U BOATS DESTROYED

VANCOUVER, July 1.

Several British officers who have arrived at Vancouver said they had been informed that the British had destroyed four of the most modern U boats, two of them at the mouth of the English Channel.

NORWEGIAN BOMB PLOT.

According to an Amsterdam message the "North German Gazette" mentions that Baron von Rautenfels, the German who was implicated in the Norwegian bomb plot, will shortly be prosecuted in Germany for contravening Norwegian laws. The "Gazette" at the same time assures the Norwegians that the explosives which were found at Christiania were not intended to be used in Norway or against Norway's interests. It adds that the German authorities have opened an inquiry into the whole case and that the matter will be remedied as far as possible.

BRAZIL'S ATTITUDE.

CO-OPERATION WITH AMERICA.

WASHINGTON, June 30.

The Brazilian Navy is co-operating with the American Fleet in hunting submarines off South America, thus practically joining the Allies. Some officials are doubtful whether Brazil will formally declare war, because the Brazilian Government is inclined to regard Brazil's attitude as defensive rather than offensive. The United States is said to be considering the despatch of a mission to Brazil to arrange the closer co-ordination of the war activities of the two countries.

MESOPOTAMIA MUDDLE.

Political correspondents anticipate that a number of those found culpable by the commission which reported on the earlier Mesopotamia campaign will promptly resign. The Government is consulting with the law officers of the Crown as to its powers to deal with the others.

Lord Sydenham, in an article in the "Sunday Times," writes:—"One of the great lessons of the Mesopotamia report is the vital importance that in the selection for political, administrative, and military posts, fitness for the appointment must be the only consideration. It will never be known to what extent the neglect of this axiom of good government has prejudiced national interests in war time and in peace time. Unless democracy grasps this essential principle it surely will fail."

AUSTRALIAN AVIATOR.

VANCOUVER, July 1.

Lieut. Arnold Edwards, an Australian aviator, has arrived here en route to his home in Sydney. He stated that nearly all Germany's veteran airmen have been killed. Their successors fear the British airmen, and go to the attack only in groups. Lieut. Edwards has flown as much as two hours, for as far as 50 miles within the German lines, without being attacked. He has had four machines shot from under him.

WAR WRITER'S DEATH.

M. Basset, correspondent for the "Petit Parisien" on the British front, was killed near Lens by a sniper's bullet. He is the first correspondent to be killed at the front. Stretcher-bearers tried to bring in M. Basset, but the enemy sent a hurricane of bullets, and also rained shells on the spot for half an hour. Eventually the wounded man was brought in and died murmuring: "I am dying a soldier's death as I always wished."

BRITISH REVENUE.

Items of British revenue for the quarter ended June 30 were:—Customs, £17,910,000; Excise, £9,114,000; stamps, £1,464,000; property and income tax, £22,954,000.

GREEK MINISTER IN LONDON.

It is reported from Athens that M. Genadius has been reappointed Greek Minister in London.

RUSSIAN FRONT.

GERMAN AND AUSTRIAN REPORTS.

(Admiralty—per Wireless Press.)

A German official report says: The Russian Government has been yielding to Entente pressure, and part of their army has been induced to attack. Russian infantry attacks on a front of 30 kilometres on the Upper Strypa (in Galicia) as far as Nasiowka failed with heavy losses. Nocturnal attacks astride the Brzezany, near Zwyzyn, broke down. Artillery fire has extended northwards to the middle Stokhod and southwards to Stanislau.

An Austrian official message reports: In Eastern Galicia artillery fire increased yesterday to the greatest violence. We repulsed strong infantry attacks in the neighbourhood of Brzezany. A strong enemy attack westward of Zaloscze broke down.

LOSS OF MONGOLIA.

A message from Bombay gives some particulars of the loss of the P. and O. liner Mongolia in a mine explosion in the Indian Ocean last week. The disturbed atmospheric conditions, it appears, prevented any anxiety being felt owing to the absence of news from the Mongolia. These conditions were accepted as an explanation of the inability to re-establish wireless communication after her last message immediately preceding the disaster. Supplies were sent the moment the mishap became known. The coolness and discipline which prevailed on board are proved by the fact that hundreds were in the boats inside a quarter of an hour.

The masts are shown as above the water. The rough monsoon seas prevent the divers from working.

Mr. F. E. Winslcombe, M.L.C., of Sydney, manfully pulled an oar in one of the boats which left the sinking ship. He died in the military hospital from heart failure following upon exhaustion and overtaxed strength. Many officers of the P. and O. Company and prominent residents attended the funeral.

WHAT HAPPENED IN MELBOURNE.

"I notice," said Mr. Joseph Cook, Minister for the Navy, yesterday, "that in connection with the loss of the Mongolia the Navy Department is being criticised by a section of the Press for withholding news that an Australian vessel had been lost. I have caused a report to be prepared as to the facts, and I find that there was no delay in releasing to the Press or to private persons the messages which came through, either from Bombay or from London. It was not till 9 o'clock on Thursday evening, June 28, that a Reuter message, addressed to a Melbourne paper, came through, giving the name of the lost vessel, and this was at once released to the paper concerned."

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The "Argus" makes the following comment on Mr. Cook's statement:—"We are afraid that Mr. Cook has not been fully informed as to what occurred. If he inquires further he will find that applications were made to the censor from this office on Thursday afternoon, and several times later, for permission to publish this news, but it was refused."

GUARDING CHILD LIFE.

LONDON, July 2.

"Baby Week," the outcome of a national effort to protect child life, was begun on Sunday, with pulpit references throughout the Kingdom. The Queen will open a comprehensive exhibition in Westminster, the main purpose of which is the instruction of mothers in the feeding, clothing, and general welfare of children. Lady Plunket (wife of a former Governor of New Zealand), has organised a New Zealand section.

OBITUARY.

The death is announced of the Right Rev. J. Mangan, Roman Catholic Bishop of Kerry.

COLLIERY STOPPAGES.

EIGHT MINES IDLE.

NEWCASTLE, Monday.

Colliery stoppages throughout the northern district are becoming more frequent than ever. There were eight collieries idle today, and in most cases work will not be resumed to-morrow. The collieries idle were:—Burwood, Abermain No. 1, Rothbury, Shortland, Rhondda, Cardiff, Rosedale, and Muscle Brook. At Burwood the miners' official informed the manager that they would not work any more until their case was settled by the coal board. It is understood that the dispute was to have been settled before the board at the end of last week, but it was postponed. Abermain No. 1 was idle on Friday, Saturday, and to-day. It is only 10 days since the wheelers at this colliery received an increase in their rate of pay. The present dispute is between the machine men and manager. Rothbury was also idle to-day, and is expected to be idle again to-morrow. A grievance from this colliery was referred recently to the coal board, but the men have not obtained satisfaction. The statute to Cardiff was over a clipper. The reasons for the other stoppages appear to be obscure. Bellbird colliery was idle last Friday, but has since resumed work.

The Federal Coal Board is not likely to sit for the next three weeks. In the meantime Mr. Paddeley, president of the colliery employees, is endeavouring to get the disputes settled and the men back at work. When seen to-day he was reticent about the stoppages.

FRENCH'S FOREST FARMS.

It is proposed by the Voluntary Workers' Association to make next Sunday a special planting day, so as to supplement the number of fruit trees on each of the 30 five-acre blocks of French's Forest. To ensure success, it is probable that a number of experts will superintend the work. The Ferguson's Hurstville Nurseries have contributed over 500 assorted fruit trees, and Mr. Nancarrow, of Deewhy, 10,000 strawberry plants. A number of private orchardists have also given freely to the soldiers' settlement, and Messrs R. S. Lamb and Co., Ltd., have given a ton of manure.

DARWIN BY-ELECTION.

HOBART, Monday.

Six hundred and seventeen additional votes in connection with the Darwin by-election were counted to-day, but there was no material alteration in the position of the candidates. The latest figures are:—W. H. Spence (Nationalist), 6423; Lieut. Hurst (Labour), 4961; Majority for Mr. Spence, 1462. There are only 450 absent votes to come, so no important change can be expected.

SOLDIERS' SETTLEMENT BOARD.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The first meeting of the Australian Soldiers' Settlement Board was held in the Senate Club-room, at Federal Parliament House to-day. All the States, with the exception of Queensland and Western Australia, were represented. Senator Millen, Minister in charge of Repatriation, presided. The board met at 2 o'clock, and the meeting lasted until after 6 o'clock, when it was adjourned until to-morrow.

Senator Millen stated that a general discussion had taken place, based largely upon the experience obtained during the past few months, and as a result an agreement was arrived at on many of the points involved. A final decision was deferred to permit of the resolutions being drafted in time for presentation to the board to-morrow.

MINERS' INSURANCE FUND.

NEWCASTLE, Sunday.

The Miners' Delegate Board has decided to inaugurate an insurance fund to insure checkweighmen, officers of the lodge, and others performing work on behalf of the Colliery Employees' Federation.

WAR NOTES.

THE NEWS FROM RUSSIA.

Such definite news of Russia as has been received is good. The "unofficial armistice" which has existed on the Eastern front since the revolution in the middle of March is definitely ended; the artillery is booming on each side, and the Russians are fighting the Germans and Austrians. In spite of the colossal efforts of traitors within Russia and subtle enemies without, Russia is again a belligerent, and it is inconceivable that anything short of the overthrow of the present Provisional Government will cause another cessation of hostilities. So far, so good—but too much must not be expected of Russia. It looks as if a definite offensive will be launched on the well-warned enemy in Galicia, and the chances favour, also, an early attack by the Russians and Roumanians along the Sereth. But we can hope for little more from these operations than that a certain number of enemy divisions will be kept on the East front and battered. The British have learned, in these recent years, that a great modern offensive has its roots in industrial efficiency; and the Russian factories, not to speak of the transport system and the civil administration, have been in a pitiful condition of disorganisation for months past. But if Russia does no more than keep the enemy fighting in the East the Allies may yet be able to carry out part of their great 1917 programme, leaving for the 1918 summer the final operations, to be carried out with the assistance of an organised America and a reorganised Russia.

SITUATION IN PALESTINE.

It is some months now since the British troops made their successful advance across the Sinai desert into Southern Palestine, and then somewhat unexpectedly, were halted before the powerfully organised Turkish line at Gaza. Delighted critics saw in these operations—which, until then, had been regarded as necessary for the defence of the Canal rather than as an offensive—the beginning of an important invasion of Palestine. Men talked of Murray sweeping north through the Holy Land while Maude led his armies beyond Bagdad, and while the Russians, from the noth-east, came down on the Turk through Armenia. But just about the time that the Turk, in superior numbers, demonstrated his determination to hold his fortified line at Gaza, the Russian revolution paralysed Russian initiative on all the Russian fronts. Since then there has been no move, either in Armenia or Palestine; and, even if they were prepared for action, the great heat of midsummer has kept the British quiet in Mesopotamia. Now, however, there seems to be a prospect of a development of the Anglo-Russian campaign against the Turks. The Russians, in Western Persia, have definitely resumed the offensive; and there are signs of activity in Armenia. That successful general, Sir Stanley Maude, can be depended upon to have his force ready for action when the time comes for him to push on again up the Tigris and Euphrates. And, most important of all, the War Office has sent one of its ablest commanders, Sir Hubert Allenby, to Egypt, where he has already taken charge. This may mean that Palestine is to receive from the British military authorities that attention that its general situation has always seemed to claim. Now that the Sinai desert has been bridged by a railway and a pipe-line carrying water, a military expedition into Palestine, based on Egypt, would appear to be a far simpler affair than the advance into Mesopotamia and Armenia, where the British and Russians respectively are operating at enormous distances from their bases, and with both flanks more or less exposed. A British force, pushing north through Palestine, would rest its left flank on the coast of the Mediterranean, and, as it advanced, it would get the use of several small ports, which would simplify its supply system. If it is the Allies' intention to deal decisively with the Turks during the summer and autumn of 1917—and that is likely—an interesting development in the Southern Palestine situation may be looked for very soon.

ENEMY FOOD SUPPLIES.

The United States, entering into the struggle with that thoroughness that is so gratifying a feature of the war situation, is giving great attention to food supplies. The Americans can see that, if the war is to continue into 1918, the matter of providing food for the belligerents in the 1917-18 winter is going to tax all the genius of statesmanship. America seems to be assuming much of the double burden of providing food for the Allies, and keeping it from the enemy, and to be setting about the task in a most businesslike way. She has conned over her export figures, and has decided that the quantities of food she has supplied to certain neutrals in the past have allowed those neutrals to supply similar quantities to Germany. Therefore, the heavy hand of the American authorities is descending upon food exports to neutrals, with a result that should be felt in Germany next winter. Thus is the last gap in the patient British blockade to be filled. That ring of sleepless British ships has done wonders in stopping the shipment to Germany of essential materials; but Britain, honouring her agreements, could not completely hold up the steady traffic between a neutral United States and certain neutrals adjoining Germany, although well aware of its significance. The trepidation with which the Central Powers must now face another winter of war will be a most important factor in forthcoming political developments. The general tenor of many reports about the German and Austrian crops is that, though they are substantial, they have been detrimentally affected by drought. The 1916 harvest, also, was a substantial one, and yet the Central Powers helped out by Roumania's grain, came through the winter with difficulty. The next winter, therefore, will present a problem of which the solution will demand all the organising genius of the Teuton. It is this prospect, no doubt, that gives rise to the interesting suggestion that Austria and Germany are preparing a drive into Bessarabia, with a view to seizing the abundant Russian harvests there. Thus (evidently goes the argument) the Central Powers would secure from Russian grain in the coming winter the assistance given by the Roumanian grain in the past critical months.

BRITISH ROYAL HOUSE.

The decision of the King to change the name of the Royal House from Saxe-Coburg-Gotha to the Royal House of Britain, or something of that sort, though seemingly an event comparatively unimportant in the clash of the world war, will yet serve an important purpose. The future historian will have to explain the reason for this remarkable action by the world's greatest monarch. What else may he say than that the barbarous and dishonourable conduct of the nation with which Great Britain was at war forced the British King formally to disown the German families to which he is related? If the Germans had not committed murder on the seas, if they had not tortured conquered peoples, if they had observed their agreements, if they had shown that gallantry and chivalry that distinguished the French who fought us a hundred years ago, would King George V. have expunged the name of "Saxe-Coburg-Gotha" from his family record? The house of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, though young, has provided three European Kings—Britain, Belgium, and Bulgaria—and stands for a very distinguished Royal line; and the fact that the British King, despite this has decided to cut himself off from it because of its German origin is a very clear indictment of German honour. It is as if the Emperor Charles had asked that he be no longer regarded as a Hapsburg, or as if the German Emperor had disowned the name of Hohenzollern. Some British princes with Teutonic titles have recently adopted British names, but the business of completely dissociating British and German institutions is not yet complete. It has been pointed out that the Frist Battalion of the Seaforth Highlanders is still referred to officially as "the Duke of Albany's." "That title was all right until Queen Victoria's son died," says one commentator. "The reigning Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha is the present Duke of Albany, and that gentleman is fighting in the German Army." A leading French review discusses as a "chose curieuse," the fact that the British 10th and 11th Hussars have each German mottoes—"Ich Dien" (I serve), and "Treu und Fest" (true and firm).

FRANCE'S DAY.

TOTAL TO DATE, £14,171.

Five rams were sold by auction yesterday by Dalgety and Co., Ltd., in aid of the France's Day Fund. One, given by Mr. F. B. S. Falkiner, Warren, was sold to the Department of Agriculture for £60gns. The Willandra Pastoral Company, Booligal, gave one ram, and it was disposed of four times—to O. Falkiner, 50gns.; R. M. Hawker, 20gns.; L. Falkiner, 25gns.; and J. V. Lord, 21gns. Pitt, Son, and Badgery, Ltd., purchased two rams, the gift of Messrs. Grant and Sheriff, Collarenebri, at £11/11/ each, while Dr. Burkitt took one at £10/10/. The latter was the gift of the Merribee Company, Baralian. By these sales the France's Day Fund will benefit to the extent of £408/19/6.

To-morrow morning one of Messrs. F. S. Falkiner and Sons' Boonoke stud rams is to be put up for auction by Messrs. Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co., at their stores, Circular Quay.

The best plan for the concert at the Town Hall on Saturday week, July 14, in aid of the France's Day appeal, is now open at Aengenoyster's, George-street, and judging by the rush to book for an entertainment last week the accommodation will be quickly taken up. The Royal Sydney Apollo Club will assist, and also Miss Jenny Cullen, Miss Rosa Alba, Mme. Charvin, and M. A. Goossens. Captain Tully will conduct massed bands, and Mr. Verbrugghen an orchestra of 90 players.

Mr. Hill is taking part in the appeal. The Governess of Suva, Mrs. Scott, has been collecting curios as well as funds, the articles to be sold on July 13.

The Killara sewing circle is organising a "Tout le Monde" and fancy dress party to be held on July 27.

The committee, at the offices, 183 Kingstreet, yesterday received advice that Yass expects to raise £1000.

The New Zealand stall on France's Day will be situated at the corner of Bridge and George streets. There will be a special selection of Maori curios for sale. The depot for the work is room 17, 2nd floor, Union Steamship Company's building, George-street (entrance at side in Jamieson-street). Any assistance will be appreciated.

A cafe chantant in aid of France's Day will be given by L'Institute de Conversation Francaise, at Oxford Hall, Liverpool-street, to-morrow night. Some leading artists have volunteered their services, and tickets may be obtained from Mlle. Boggio, Citizens'-chambers, 36 Moore-street. There will be dancing, and other attractions.

France's Day is expected to witness Mosman's biggest effort for a war fund. A committee, with the Mayor of Mosman, as president, and an executive, with Mrs. P. Leahy as hon. organiser, have been formed. At the preliminary meeting £75 was subscribed in five minutes. French residents are taking an active part. There is to be a French fair at Spit Junction, and to-morrow a gift evening will be held in the Town Hall, to which residents are invited to take gifts of money or in kind to furnish the stalls. There will be musical items, and an address on France's Day by Mrs. Mackinnon.

A progressive euchre party and dance in aid of the France's Day Fund is to be held in the Oxford Hall, Liverpool-street, on Friday, July 13.

Parramatta has organised a strong committee to work for France's Day. The ladies are organising for stalls, and concerts, dances, etc. are also being arranged for. The Parramatta Bowling Club has donated a rink, and will make further efforts on Saturday next.

TOUCHING LETTERS.

Some of the letters received by the French-Australian League of Help are extremely touching. "I write to you gladly in the name of all my little brothers and sisters," runs one received by the wife of the Governor of Paris, who is president of the society for the assistance of mothers and infants. "We know that for Christmas you wished us to have joy sent by our Australian friends. We have had such a happy Christmas—toys, good things, and loving words. Say so to our Australian friends and thank them from our hearts." And the signatures follow—"Marie, 12 years; father killed in Alsace, mother dead." And so on.

"It is from you, dear Australian friends, that we received warm winter clothing for myself and little children. My little daughter sends her kisses from her very heart to the Australian brothers and sisters who remembered her," writes a woman whose husband was killed, and who was left in desperate want, to "dear unknown friends in Australia."

The "pollus" without friends have also been encouraged by gifts from the league. One, a prisoner in Germany, writes, in a letter full of spelling mistakes:—

"I thank you for the parcel our chief of the 6th Cie has just given me. It brings me much pleasure, for, seeing have been in the hands of the Boches for over two and a half years, I have had no news whatever of my wife or children. Neither have I had the good luck of having a war godmother, so yours is the first parcel I have received. I do thank you, and send you my respectful salutations. Caplies Alphonse, Armee d'Orient, via Marseille."

An interesting one from a soldier in the Chasseurs d'Afrique, written just before an attack somewhere, is translated by Mdlle Soubeiran as follows:—"Mademoiselle,—Forgive me if I write this bit of letter. It is to thank you for the gifts received by the soldiers of the 3rd Battalion of Africa. For by interesting yourself in that battalion you interest yourself in me, and you are the first person who ever troubled about me, for I am alone in the world, and have no war godmother. Now I see I have a kind one, who does me some comforts which will help me to turn out the Boches from my dear country. Mademoiselle, before going up with my companions to attack, I am anxious to thank you myself, as well as the kind women who are attached to your society. Believe in the assurance of my deepest respect, and the whole of my gratitude. Vive la France.—Astier Victor Henri, 3rd Battalion de Marche, Chasseur d'Afrique."

MEAT INDUSTRY FRENCH FUND.

The meat industry quota to France's Day Fund is likely to assume fair proportions. Squatters, graziers, and owners of sheep and cattle generally, as well as selling agents and buyers of stock at Homebush, have been asked to contribute in money and kind, and although the movement has just started, the total already has reached over £500. Assistance is being received from all centres. Yesterday at the Homebush sales contributions in kind were sold, which totalled £68/13/9. Mr. W. Hall, of Walla Wallah at Forbes, sent along 10 cross wethers, which made 44/ each (£22). Mr. S. K. Read, of Nonda, Boggabri, forwarded two wethers which realised £3/12/6. Mr. E. E. Beveridge, of Gilgandra, forwarded five sheep. These yielded £9. Mr. P. Osborne, of Tarago, gave five cross wethers, which made 50/ each (£12/10/). Mr. J. B. N. Osborne, of Gunning, contributed five cross lambs, which sold at £2/5/ each (£11/5/), and Mr. C. Osborne, of Gungendore, contributed five cross lambs. These sold at 42/3 each (£10/11/3).

REDUCTION OF LICENSES.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The Licensing Board has decided that 22 hotels in Richmond, South Yarra, and South Melbourne shall be closed at the end of the present year, on the ground that they are unnecessary for the requirements of those districts.

WAR CASUALTIES.

KILLED.

Lieutenant Peter B. J. O'Reilly, son of Mrs. O'Reilly, of College-street, Drummoyne, and the late Mr. J. J. O'Reilly, chemist, South Coast, was killed in France on May 3. He was employed at Messrs. Elliott Bros.' laboratory, Balmain, and his brother, Driver J. O'Reilly, is serving in the same unit of the artillery in France. In a letter to his mother concerning Lieutenant O'Reilly's death, the officer commanding wrote: "He was my right-hand man, and was to have received his captaincy. I had previously recommended him for the Military Cross, and it is certain that he deserved it, and would have received it had he lived."

Mr. R. Finlayson, of Wollongong, has received a communication from his son, Captain Malcolm Finlayson, stating that his brother, Lieutenant Ronald B. Finlayson, was killed by a shell on the Somme near Flers, on November 5 last. His body was discovered and buried on Easter Monday by two fellow-townsmen—Private Rudkin and Sergeant Baker, of the Pioneers. Lieutenant Finlayson was a member of the metropolitan inspectors' staff of the Bank of New South Wales.

Stanley J. O'Hare has been killed in France. He was 24 years of age, and was the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. O'Hare, of Carrawong Station, Monaro, and 31 Darling Point-road. He was a grandson of the late Mr. John Hunter, the well-known boot manufacturer, of Sydney, and after completing his education at Riverview College, he returned to Carrawong to assist in the management of his father's station with his brother Cyril, who is now in the front.

Private W. J. Bath, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bath, of Waleha-road, has been killed in France. Two brothers have been wounded.

Mr. and Mrs. Stead, of Southwood, Five Dock, have been notified that their eldest son, Sergeant W. J. Stead, has been killed. He was postmaster of the M.U.I.O.O.F., and for several years honorary secretary of the local branch of the Liberal Association.

Mr. W. Newcombe, 27 Greenbank-street, Marrickville, has received information that his son, Private Harold Stanley Newcombe, has been killed in France.

Mr. J. J. Dunn, Darlinghurst, has received advice that his son, Private E. J. Dunn, has been killed. He was formerly employed as a miner at Greymouth, New Zealand.

DIED OF WOUNDS.

Information has been received by Mr. Wm. Ogilvie, Murton, Edgecliff, that his brother, Charles Evelyn, has died from wounds received in Mesopotamia. He was 36 years of age, and leaves a widow and four children.

Private Lindsay Lansdowne, aged 23 years, son of Mr. R. H. Lansdowne, of Goulburn, has died of wounds received in France.

Mr. and Mrs. John Jones, of Ermington, Parramatta, have been advised that their son, Lance-corporal W. R. Jones, has died of wounds in France.

WOUNDED.

Mrs. Alfred Nelleman, 95 Read-street, Bronte, has been notified that her husband, Private Nelleman, has been wounded in France.

Mr. and Mrs. George Honeyman, of Avoca, Pine-street, Randwick, have received advice that their youngest son, Claude Honeyman, has been wounded (third occasion). A brother, Harry, is in France, and another, Victor, has returned. Private Claude Honeyman was at the landing at Gallipoli, and fought at Lone Pine and in France.

Information has been received that Sergt. L. Hinkley, well known in athletic circles, has been wounded in the leg in France, and is now in hospital in England.

Mrs. C. Gore, of Ronaldville, Stanley-street, Burwood, has been notified that her son, Private Gordon Gore, has been wounded in France.

Mrs. M. Parker, 97 George-street, Erskineville, has been notified that her eldest son, Signaller H. E. Parker, has been wounded in France.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Griffith, of Smallbeath, Bayview-street, Bexley, have been notified that their son, Private W. Griffith, has been wounded in France.

Mr. and Mrs J. D. Partridge, of Westgate, Clermiston-avenue, Roseville, have been informed that their youngest son, Driver Clarence D. Partridge, has been wounded in France. Two brothers are at the front.

Mrs. E. A. T. Rogers, Speed-street, Liverpool, has received advice that her husband was wounded (second occasion) at Poziores, where his brother was killed.

Private Cyril Lewis, son of Mrs. G. Lewis, of Taree, and formerly scoutmaster of the Taree Boy Scouts, has been wounded (second occasion) in France.

Private K. G. Single, of Taree, who enlisted with the North Coasters, has been wounded in France.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Heath, of Langley Vale, have received advice on successive days that three of their sons, Privates W. Heath, Fred. Heath, and Jack Heath, have been wounded.

Mr. M. Ryan, of Berriman, has received information that his son, Private P. Ryan, has been wounded in France.

Mrs. E. Norman, of Denholme, The Crescent, Vaucluse, has been notified that her son, Corporal Leslie Norman, has been wounded in France. Another son, Hugh, is on active service.

Mr. and Mrs. James P. Cox, of Park-road, St. Peters, have been informed that their son, Private Erroll C. Cox, has been severely wounded.

Private Donald Shaw, of Lawrence, is suffering from gas-poisoning.

MISSING.

Private F. Johnson, of Woodford Island, is missing.

Mr. and Mrs. G.

CITY COUNCIL.

In connection with the discharge of City Council employees, the Lord Mayor stated at yesterday's meeting that in the case of the Electric Lighting Department every married man had been re-employed, and a considerable number of single men had also been taken on again.

The report of the Finance Committee, recommending that returned soldiers, married men, who have offered to enlist, married men with children, single men with dependants, who have offered to enlist, married men, and single men without dependants who have offered to enlist, should be engaged in this order of preference in future appointments, was carried by 12 votes to 8.

The appointment of a chemical analyst for the Electric Lighting Department at a salary of £300 per year was agreed to.

After opposition on the part of Alderman Kelly and Alderman Farrell, the following motion was carried:—"That authority be given to the City Electrical Engineer to visit the United States and Canada with the object of making himself acquainted with the latest practice in electricity supply, and that an expenditure of £500 on travelling and other expenses in connection with the visit to and inspection of electric systems be approved." In supporting the recommendation, the Lord Mayor said that as the City Council had expended £2,500,000 on its electric light plant and fresh contracts amounting to £140,000 had been entered into, it was in the interests of the citizens that the chief electrical engineer should be assisted in extending his knowledge by personal observations of the latest developments.

A motion that an independent Appeal Board be appointed to deal with the appeals by municipal employees was negatived on division.

P.P. BOARDS.

ANNUAL CONVENTION.

About 30 delegates, representing the various pastures protection boards throughout the State, assembled at Aarons' Exchange Hotel last night, at the opening of the annual convention of those bodies, under the presidency of Mr. F. A. Mackenzie.

In his annual address the chairman said the general position of affairs with regard to the boards has never been as satisfactory as it should have been. It would be difficult to explain he said, why the direct representation of the interests of pastoralists and the financial contributions of stockowners should be so slightingly treated by various Governments. "While stockowners pay for the administration of the legislation which is supposed to enable them to carry on their business in a proper manner," he said, "a bit of an agitation in favour of handing over the administration of the Act to the shire councils has been sufficient to cut off all the reforms which we have proposed, and for which we have fought so hard.

"Another very serious matter is the constant endeavours of certain members of Parliament and others to interfere with the means of destruction of rabbits," he went on. "If these gentlemen were allowed to carry on their vote-catching schemes the rabbit pest would be even more terrible than it is. Various boards are continually handling the proposition that there should be no poisoning within 40 miles of the freezing works. It is apparent that if this were carried into effect its advocates would not stop at 40 miles."

Welcoming the delegates on behalf of the Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Valder, Under-Secretary, said the department was anxious to have many of the matters on the business sheet settled. The Minister was unable to be present, but would be pleased to receive a deputation to present their resolutions at the conclusion of the convention. Referring to the blowfly problem, Mr. Valder reviewed the results of experiments made. Co-operation, he said, was the only way to cope with the pest. Experiments had gone far enough to make complete eradication possible, and there was no royal road to this end. Destruction of breeding grounds, trapping, and treatment of sheep were the three effective methods in which co-operation was required. He spoke of the possibility of legislation to compel such co-operation.

Mr. W. W. Fergusson, Government Entomologist, addressed the meeting on the need for the destruction of breeding grounds of blowflies. All investigations, he said, pointed to the fact that the flies bred only in animal matter. Dead carcases, instead of being a menace, could be made a trap for the flies, because they could catch the flies while breeding. Arsenic water, in the proportion of 1lb to eight gallons, would kill all the flies and their eggs on a carcase within a couple of hours. Some idea of the fecundity of the pest could be gained from the fact that 8000 breeding larvae had been taken from a dead cat, while a single sheep carcase would harbour countless thousands.

The new council of advice was elected as follows:—Western: Messrs. G. W. Magill, G. H. Officer, and L. Lesley. Eastern: Messrs. R. Hunt, F. A. Mackenzie, and J. Ross. Central: Messrs. J. G. Fletcher, C. Sinclair, and D. S. M'Larty.

The convention adjourned till to-night.

CHILD WELFARE.

During the course of a statement about the Government's efforts in the direction of preserving child life yesterday, the Minister for Health, Mr. Fitzgerald, took strong exception to recent criticisms charging the Government with adopting a policy of "laissez faire" in regard to what he holds to be one of the most vital questions of the hour.

"Even despite the present restriction of finances," said the Minister, "much can be done, and is being done, in the way of propaganda work, and every mother is now being educated by informing literature in regard to the welfare of herself and her offspring. Further means towards the reduction of infant mortality will be the passage of the Nurses' Registration Bill, and this, I hope, will be one of the first measures brought forward in the next session of Parliament. By the operation of this statute, the modern prototype of Sairey Gamp will be relegated to the night-mares of the past. The Government is now making strenuous efforts to cope with that dread wrecker of infant life—venereal disease—and a scheme is in operation whereby every subsidised hospital throughout the State will possess the facilities of a venereal clinic. It is certainly another potent factor in infant mortality to receiving much anxious thought, and a proposal is afoot to extend the system of day nurseries. Institutions which do excellent work by caring for these little unfortunates whilst the mothers pursue their daily avocations. As regards the feeding of infants, I can state authoritatively that in no part of the world is the milk supply subjected to more rigid inspection than in the State. In parenthesis I may say that only the other day I moved the Acting Premier to cable to England asking that the embargo on the exportation of infant foods be removed."

MINERS AND DOCTOR.

HELENSBURGH, Monday.

The dispute in connection with the colliery doctor question caused the stoppage of the Metropolitan mine this morning. The trouble originated some weeks ago, when the resident medical officer (Dr. Cox) applied for an increase in the fees paid by subscribers to the medical fund, all of whom are employees of the Metropolitan Coal Company. His application being refused, the doctor tendered his resignation, but notified his intention of continuing private practice. About a hundred of the colliery workers agreed to pay the increase. Attempts made to get another doctor have failed. At a special meeting held yesterday a decision not to resume work until a medical officer was available was arrived at by a large majority of the employees.

LECTURE-RECITAL.

"Exits and Entrances" was the title of the lecture-recital by Mr. William Holman, M.A., at the Conservatorium of Music last night. The long-memorised student of the drama recalled many celebrities of the stage here and in England, while telling the story of the "playhouse" from the days of bare boards and make-shift scenery to the "regardless of expense" productions in our own times. The theatrical profession, he remarked, was more respected now than it was when the genius of Edmund Kean flashed like lightning in Shakespearian performances long before the gorgeous mountings which are associated with the name of Sir Henry Irving. Incidentally a tribute was paid to Charles Fechter, the brilliant Frenchman, whose Hamlet is one of the "traditions" of the English stage. In the scenes and speeches which were selected to illustrate the lecture, Mr. Holman presented the comedy element in a service with surprising skill and sureness.

SOLDIER MEMBER'S CHOICE.

PERTH, Sunday.

Mr. W. Price, the Assembly member for Albany, who, as a lieutenant in the A.I.F., has been on active service for a long time, has made his choice in regard to politics, and in a cable to Mr. Seaddan has declared in favour of Nationalism. Steps are being taken by the official Labour party to oppose him. Price at the forthcoming State elections.

SHEEP SALES.

KEEN DEMAND FOR MERINO FLOCK RAMS.

The annual stud sheep sales were commenced yesterday morning, when Dalgety and Co., Ltd., submitted a catalogue comprising 1050 merinos.

According to a statement made by the auctioneer, there were 2850 merinos under offer this year, as against 4500 in 1916, when Dalgety and Co., Ltd., had 1750.

Good demand prevailed for stud rams, the highest price realised being 310 guineas, which was paid by Mr. John Moffitt for a ram sold by Charles Mills (Uaridry), Ltd., and by Messrs. Stirton and Campbell for one submitted on behalf of Mr. F. B. S. Falkiner, Haddon Rig, Warren.

There was keen competition for high-class merino flock rams, and the rates obtained were higher than those ruling last year. Medium-class sheep and those which showed signs of the bad season experienced in some districts suffered somewhat, and were cleared at prices about on a par with those paid at the previous sales. It was stated that there was a shortage of "flocks" in Australia.

The following sales were effected:—

MERINO STUD RAMS.

On account of Walter Hawker, Asaana Station, Clare, South Australia.—6 stud rams: 1, P.F.A., 95gns.; 1 3gns., 1 3gns., 1, Campbell Bros., Inverell, 8gns.; 1, J. Mice, 35gns.; 1 3gns. Average, £40/3/6.

On account of M. S. Hawker, North Bungaree, Jacka, South Australia.—4 stud rams: 1, P.F.A., 52gns.; 1, W. Carter, Grenfell, 35gns.; 1, P.F.A., 40gns.; 1, Elder Smith and Co., Adelaide, 22gns. Average, £40/3/6.

On account H. C. and R. M. Hawker, Clare, South Australia.—Seven merino stud rams: 1, C. J. Maslin, Grenfell, 30gns.; 1, 18gns.; 1, J. Leigo, 35gns.; 1, P.F.A., 32gns.; 2, 17s. Average, £31/5/.

On account W. H. Treweeke and Sons, Mogil Mogil, at the conclusion of the convention. Referring to the blowfly problem, Mr. Valder reviewed the results of experiments made. Co-operation, he said, was the only way to cope with the pest. Experiments had gone far enough to make complete eradication possible, and there was no royal road to this end. Destruction of breeding grounds, trapping, and treatment of sheep were the three effective methods in which co-operation was required. He spoke of the possibility of legislation to compel such co-operation.

Mr. W. W. Fergusson, Government Entomologist, addressed the meeting on the need for the destruction of breeding grounds of blowflies. All investigations, he said, pointed to the fact that the flies bred only in animal matter. Dead carcases, instead of being a menace, could be made a trap for the flies, because they could catch the flies while breeding. Arsenic water, in the proportion of 1lb to eight gallons, would kill all the flies and their eggs on a carcase within a couple of hours. Some idea of the fecundity of the pest could be gained from the fact that 8000 breeding larvae had been taken from a dead cat, while a single sheep carcase would harbour countless thousands.

The new council of advice was elected as follows:—Western: Messrs. G. W. Magill, G. H. Officer, and L. Lesley. Eastern: Messrs. R. Hunt, F. A. Mackenzie, and J. Ross. Central: Messrs. J. G. Fletcher, C. Sinclair, and D. S. M'Larty.

The convention adjourned till to-night.

CHILD WELFARE.

During the course of a statement about the Government's efforts in the direction of preserving child life yesterday, the Minister for Health, Mr. Fitzgerald, took strong exception to recent criticisms charging the Government with adopting a policy of "laissez faire" in regard to what he holds to be one of the most vital questions of the hour.

"Even despite the present restriction of finances," said the Minister, "much can be done, and is being done, in the way of propaganda work, and every mother is now being educated by informing literature in regard to the welfare of herself and her offspring. Further means towards the reduction of infant mortality will be the passage of the Nurses' Registration Bill, and this, I hope, will be one of the first measures brought forward in the next session of Parliament. By the operation of this statute, the modern prototype of Sairey Gamp will be relegated to the night-mares of the past. The Government is now making strenuous efforts to cope with that dread wrecker of infant life—venereal disease—and a scheme is in operation whereby every subsidised hospital throughout the State will possess the facilities of a venereal clinic. It is certainly another potent factor in infant mortality to receiving much anxious thought, and a proposal is afoot to extend the system of day nurseries. Institutions which do excellent work by caring for these little unfortunates whilst the mothers pursue their daily avocations. As regards the feeding of infants, I can state authoritatively that in no part of the world is the milk supply subjected to more rigid inspection than in the State. In parenthesis I may say that only the other day I moved the Acting Premier to cable to England asking that the embargo on the exportation of infant foods be removed."

MINERS AND DOCTOR.

HELENSBURGH, Monday.

The dispute in connection with the colliery doctor question caused the stoppage of the Metropolitan mine this morning. The trouble originated some weeks ago, when the resident medical officer (Dr. Cox) applied for an increase in the fees paid by subscribers to the medical fund, all of whom are employees of the Metropolitan Coal Company. His application being refused, the doctor tendered his resignation, but notified his intention of continuing private practice. About a hundred of the colliery workers agreed to pay the increase. Attempts made to get another doctor have failed. At a special meeting held yesterday a decision not to resume work until a medical officer was available was arrived at by a large majority of the employees.

LECTURE-RECITAL.

"Exits and Entrances" was the title of the lecture-recital by Mr. William Holman, M.A., at the Conservatorium of Music last night. The long-memorised student of the drama recalled many celebrities of the stage here and in England, while telling the story of the "playhouse" from the days of bare boards and make-shift scenery to the "regardless of expense" productions in our own times. The theatrical profession, he remarked, was more respected now than it was when the genius of Edmund Kean flashed like lightning in Shakespearian performances long before the gorgeous mountings which are associated with the name of Sir Henry Irving. Incidentally a tribute was paid to Charles Fechter, the brilliant Frenchman, whose Hamlet is one of the "traditions" of the English stage. In the scenes and speeches which were selected to illustrate the lecture, Mr. Holman presented the comedy element in a service with surprising skill and sureness.

SOLDIER MEMBER'S CHOICE.

PERTH, Sunday.

Mr. W. Price, the Assembly member for Albany, who, as a lieutenant in the A.I.F., has been on active service for a long time, has made his choice in regard to politics, and in a cable to Mr. Seaddan has declared in favour of Nationalism. Steps are being taken by the official Labour party to oppose him. Price at the forthcoming State elections.

FINANCIAL.

THE STATE FINANCES.

DEBIT BALANCE REDUCED.

As a result of the 12 months' operations, the debit on consolidated revenue account has been increased from £214,239 to £482,100, the deficiency for the year thus being £268,761. The net receipts for the year aggregated £20,539,577, while the ordinary expenditure was £20,808,423, in which has to be included £328,042 contributed to the Public Works Fund under the Act of 1906, and £235,000 a special grant in aid. The following comparison may be made of the more important items of revenue:—

	1915-1916. £	1916-1917. £
Commonwealth returns	2,297,872	2,296,013
Stamps	1,797,695	1,362,227
Income Tax	1,781,916	2,063,011
Motor Vehicle Tax	55,251	67,499
Betting Tax, Totalisator	...	6,346
Railway Traffic	8,661,913	8,427,220
Tramways	2,009,253	2,020,423
Sydney Harbour Trust	491,472	513,787
Metropolitan water rates	845,208	868,234
Metropolitan sewerage rates

REVENUE CLASSIFIED.

The above contributions to the revenue fall under the heading of departmental, or, as it is officially described, governmental revenue, as distinct from the receipts from the business undertakings, which are not revenue proper. The former increased by £436,742, and the latter by £446,127. Details follow:—

WHERE THE REVENUE COMES FROM.

	Departmental Receipts.	Business Undertakings.
1915-16	£8,240,926	£11,472,974
1916-17	8,842,647	11,893,101
Increase	435,721	446,127

BOTH SIDES OF THE LEDGER.

Carrying the figures one step further, it is found that, whereas the consolidated revenue has increased since July 1, 1915, by £336,053 net, the expenditure on the same account has increased by £264,496 net. The following summary may be given:—

CONSOLIDATED REVENUE ACCOUNT.

	Receipts.	Expenditure.	Balance.
1915-16	£19,762,548 ..	£19,553,977 ..	Debit £274,339
1916-17	20,539,577 ..	20,808,423 ..	Debit 483,137
Increase	£336,029 ..	£254,496

HEAVY EXPENDITURE.

The State expenditure has expanded by about £254,496 during the financial year. There has been an all-round increase as follows:—

EXPENDITURE INCREASING.

	1915-16.	1916-17.
Departmental	£6,329,414 ..	£6,710,316
Interest	4,726,275 ..	5,144,722
Redemption	...	...
Business undertakings	7,669,998 ..	8,006,794
Total	£18,764,094 ..	£19,909,826

AGGREGATE EXPENDITURE.

The Treasurer has been less lavish in his expenditure, especially on loan account. Details of the outlay from each of the national accounts for the complete financial year compare with similar figures for the previous year as follow:—

EXPENDITURE ON ALL ACCOUNTS.

	1915-16. £	1916-17. £
Consolidated revenue	£19,990,183	£20,245,861*
Closer settlement	148,900	40,308
Public works	562,844	666,670
Railway loans	1,229,234	1,755,298
General loans	7,478,807	6,346,718
Total	£29,409,657	£28,095,854

*Including £305,042 grants and transfers to the Public Works Fund.

CASH BALANCE.

There is a net cash credit balance of £1,706,316, there being a credit of £3,332,439 in Sydney banks, and a debit of £1,626,113 in London.

THE MORATORIUM.

(2.) If the contract is between the owner of the building and myself, am I or the owner of the building liable?

(1) The builder if he is the chief contractor. (2) Yourself.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

The hardware markets were yesterday more concerned about stocks and prices than anything else. There was no difficulty in selling if a house was fortunate enough to have the stock to sell in wholesale parcels. Most purchasers were restricting their selling operations to regular customers. The tinplate position was especially acute. As far as could be learned, there were no shipments coming forward for the reason that tinplates 20 x 14 could not be purchased at Bristol at the basis of 20/6 f.o.b. Bristol. The tinplate manufacturers who are allowed to sell can obtain a considerable bonus on that rate. If there were plates available to-day—and they are badly wanted by canners—something in the vicinity of 50/ a box would be wanted. This is an example of the interference of Government with legitimate trading. Probably if the market had been allowed to take its course a reasonable price would have been charged, and as many tinplates as could have been supplied by the British manufacturers would have been procured. As it is to-day, an unreasonable price is asked, and very few tinplates can be procured, certainly not sufficient to fill orders. No No. 10 black wire was available. For No. 8 black wire £45 was quoted in small lots. Buyers were offering £42 for parcels, but there were no sellers. Other lines were without material attention.

Oils were steady, and full rates were being obtained. Imported linseed oil, first brands, was quoted nominally at 7/3 for raw, but it is doubtful whether there was any on the market to sell. A little boiled oil sold at 7/10. Meggitt's Australian linseed oil was in keen demand at late rates. Halves of Fergusson's whiteleaf had sale at £77; cwts of Champion's also sold at that figure.

As an instance of the increase of prices brought about by the war, the case of seats used for re-seating chairs may be quoted. Originally these came from Austria, and cost, landed here, 3½ each. A shipment which lately arrived was rushed by the trade. The cost price was 9½d each. The hand cane originally from Russia, and had been in England for some time.

The acids were firm on reports of fair sized shipments of cream of tartar, tartaric acid, and citric acid having been aboard the Mongolia.

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

DAIRY.

NORTHERN RIVER EGGS WEAKER.

An active market ruled for new-laid eggs in Sussex-street yesterday, and supplies cleared readily at 1/5 to 1/6, though some houses were prepared to sell as low as 1/4. Northern Rivers tended to be sluggish, and prices were reduced to 1/1½ to 1/2; but the big competition with Adelaide consignments last week, and the large supplies of cold storage eggs which were being cleaned up, had a depressing effect on the demand for the Northern River arrivals. Moreover, supplies from the coastal districts—both Northern and Southern—appeared to be on the increase, while the demand did not show a corresponding improvement.

A brisk inquiry proceeded for hams and bacon, and supplies proved ample for requirements. Indeed, some quantities of hams and bacon were finding their way to Melbourne, and, with the Queensland supplies sent there, caused an easier trend of values. Excellent business was reported for both loaf and tinned cheese. Choice liquid Western honey was dealt in at 5½d per lb; but supplies were only fair, and there was no immediate indication of a replenishment of stocks. Northern River honey cleared at 3½d to 4½d per lb.

Butter trade assumed normal proportions. The Kinchela, from the Macleay, brought 650 boxes, and the Wollongbar had 3109 boxes from Byron Bay, while 738 boxes came by the Burringbar from the Richmond River.

Quotations were:—

Eggs.—Hen, suburban, new-laid, 1/5 to 1/8; Northern Rivers, 1/1½ to 1/2; Manning River, 1/1; South Coast and railways, 1/3; cold stores, /11 to 1/; Duck eggs, new-laid, 1/6; case, 1/1 per dozen.

Butter.—2/ per cwt to be added for boxes and storage. Choicest 158/8, second grade 149/4, third grade 130/8 per cwt; packed in prints 1d per lb extra may be charged.

FORAGE AND GRAIN.

POTATOES WEAKER.

Brisk business was recorded in cereal lines in Sussex-street yesterday, and late prices were well maintained. Algerian milling oats eased a shade, but other grades ruled firmer. Blue peas were scarce, but prices remained unchanged at 18/ to 18/6. Maize was weak. The Ago, from Melbourne, and Sydney, from Devonport, unloaded derrick straw, which realized £3/10/ per ton. An improved inquiry ruled for Hunter River lucerne hay, which hardened 10/ per ton.

The opening prices for the Tasmanian potato shipment of 9500 bags were 10/ per ton lower for Bismarcks and Pinkeyes. The quantities of onions forthcoming were not available, and the price remained unchanged at £7 per ton for table lots, while an additional 10/ was given for picklers.

At the firewood sales 32 trucks were offered, and prices remained materially the same as those of last week.

Quotations were:—

Chaff.—Wheaten, prime £5 to £5/10/, good £4/5/ to £4/15/, medium £3/10/ to £4; oaten, prime £5 to £5/5/, good £4/5/ to £4/10/, medium £3/10/ to £4. Victorian: £4/10/ a ton.

Oats.—Tasmanian: A grade, choice 2/5 to 2/6; B grade, 2/3 to 2/4. Algerian feed: Tasmanian, 2/6 to 2/7. Victorian, 2/6 to 2/7; milling, 2/9 to 2/10½.

Sparrowbills, 3/4 to 3/5 per bushel.

Lucerne.—Prime green, large bales, £4 to £4/5/; small brown £3 to £3/10/; coarse, dry, and rough, 30/; half-bales, prime new, £5 to £5/10/ a ton.

Derrick Straw.—Tasmanian wheaten, £3/10/; oaten £2/10/ a ton.

Brown Millet.—Prime long hurl, £22 to £24, inferior from £20 a ton.

Peas.—Grey, 7/ to 7/6; blue, A grade, 18/ to 18/6 a bushel.

Maize.—Prime dry yellow, 3/5; white, 3/4½ to 3/5 a bushel.

Onions.—Victorian: Brown Spanish, £7; picklers, £7/10/ a ton.

Swede Turnips.—£4 a ton.

Potatoes.—Tasmanian: Redskins, £7/10/; Brownells and Pinkeyes, £7; Bismarcks and Pinkeyes, £4/10/ a ton. Victorian: Redskins, £6; Pinkeyes, £4/10/ a ton.

Firewood.—Boxwood, A, good to prime, 20/ to 22/ per load; B, 17/; Ironbark, 18/ to 24/6; mixed wood 13/ to 14/6; bakers' wood, best 18/, good 15/, inferior 11/ to 12/ per ton.

RAILWAY MARKET.

Another large yarding of forage was offered at Alexandria yesterday, comprising chiefly grain chaff. Derrick straw was in unusually heavy supply, and in most cases stocks passed off easily at late rates. For wheaten and oaten chaff the demand was weaker, owing to the large quantities arriving during the past three weeks, and prices showed a general fall, the decrease being most prominent for medium and inferior grades. Lucerne hay and chaff, consisting of medium quality, found a poor market, and consequently consignments sold at lower rates or were passed over for future offer.

In the vegetable section buyers were supplied with a large offering, and agents had difficulty in obtaining late rates. Buyers not prepared to sell their stocks at lower prices.

The yarding comprised 146 trucks of forage, 9 of grain, and 36 of vegetables; while the manifest included 253 trucks of forage, 42 of grain, and 45 of vegetables.

Wheaten Chaff.—Ex Coolmore (3397), 2/0; (1160), 4/4; Kelly, Gammain (11450), 4/11; Griffiths, Coniston (1869), 4/4; (10240), 4/3; McGrath, Duncan (8143), 3/9; (2577), 3/8; Ex Bulla (1400), 3/7; Ex Bencubbin, Tranquility (1128), 5/; Blunt, Spring Hill (17040), 3/7; McFarlane, Berrenore (10233), 5/6 per cwt.
